Hi, I am Amir Hossein Saeid, an Illustrator/Web Designer at the forefront of the contemporary art scene in Tehran, Iran. I recently finished a five year long illustration project on the streets of Tehran and I am the first Iranian artist to receive an honorable mention at the prestigious Archibald exhibition (2006, London). It is an interactive artwork that presents the details of everyday life through the eyes of "ordinary Iranians". The project has been featured on numerous art websites, and was also the basis of a book published by Thames & Hudson (2008). It has also been selected for the 2007 Gulbenkian art collection to be featured at the Seville Biennial art festival. The work has also been featured by hundreds of artists around the world, all celebrating the children living on the streets. You can click here for more information:
